“99 Ways To Speak Spanish Right Now!”

The US Army Special Forces (Green Berets), it's mandatory that all Special Forces soldiers attend a language school and learn a language orientated towards the Special Forces Group they are assigned. Each Special Forces Group is assigned a particular part of the world.

For example, 7th Special Forces Group, their Area of Operations is Central America, South America and immediate surrounding areas. So 7th Special Forces Group sends their Special Forces soldiers to schools to learn languages like Spanish, Portuguese, French, Dutch,...

My languages when assigned to 7th Special Forces Group was Spanish and French when I was assigned to 5th Special Forces Group (see Blog Post below to learn some French like right now).

So with all the language training and experiences with Spanish, I'd thought I'd share it with you.

The “99 Ways To Speak Spanish Right Now!” is taken directly from my Survival Book - “How To Learn Spanish Fast!” - 3,399 Ways To Speak Spanish Instantly!

OK, let's start learning some Spanish like right now.

Below, on the left-side are the Spanish words with their translation and on the right is how to pronounce it.

On the right of each Spanish word is the spelled-out phonetic version. PRETEND you're speaking it out in English so to pronounce it in Spanish. Like the Spanish word 'Algo.' Algo means 'something.' To pronounce it, say the 02 words 'All Go.' Good, you just said the word 'something' in Spanish.

OK, here are several more examples before we start some simple common everyday Spanish sentences.

1st Note: When you see words CAPITALIZED segments, that means it is accented. Say it harder, say it louder than the rest of the word.

2nd Note: The letter 'r' had a d sound to it. But even if you don't pronounce the 'd' sound, don't worry, they'll still understand you.
